

LEO XIII IS MUCH WEAKER
AS THE DAY PROGRESSES

Says He Expects To Die Tomorrow, and Will Not Be Alive When Morning Service Is Held.

HE MAY LINGER MANY DAYS LONGER

His Holiness Had a Fainting Spell Early This Afternoon, Which Left Him in a Very Weak Condition.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Rome, July 8.—Noon.—About noon the pope was carried to a reclining chair. This he had insisted upon despite the doctors' orders not to move. He held a long discourse with the physicians and attendants. As the afternoon advanced the improvement following the operation was not maintained. The reaction was more feeble. He continues to take but little nourishment. A telegram was sent today to a well known specialist calling on him to attend a consultation at the vatican tomorrow.
Rome, July 8.—Composer Perosi was a visitor at the vatican today. After leaving he went into the country. This would indicate that the pope is much better as Perosi is director of the music in the Sistine chapel and would have to be present to participate in the service should his holiness die.
Ready to Die
The pope this morning in a conversation with one of his attendants said he would die tomorrow. He said: "I am sorry that I can not be present at tomorrow's service because tomorrow I shall die. Early this afternoon the pope had another fainting fit."

Official Bulletin
The following is the official bulletin issued this morning at seven o'clock. The pope passed a fairly good night though he had no regular sleep. Pulse became more irregular and respiration not so free as yesterday. His condition does not permit of a lengthy examination but his condition is less easy owing to loss of strength which increases from time to time. On waking this morning his holiness said: "I wish it was all over. I know from my vision what is awaiting me."
Blood Poisoning
Symptoms of blood poisoning have appeared in the pope. It is now stated that his life depends entirely upon the progress of the dread symptoms and that he may live days or it may be hours only. Dr. Mazzoni has given up all hope of saving his life and has officially stated that cynosis of the fingers has set in and that the pope is not strong enough to throw off the new complication.

Doctors Are Hopeful.
Pope Leo may live several days. His physicians have taken hope again and are becoming optimistic.
Following a delicate operation performed upon the pontiff by Dr. Mazzoni and Dr. Lapponi, the marvelous vitality of his holiness again asserted itself, and he rallied wonderfully. He was much brighter and took considerable nourishment, and Dr. Mazzoni, while declining to make any positive statement, expressed the opinion that his patient might live. At this hour the pope is in a troubled sleep. The point of operation was just below the seventh rib, and the operation itself consisted in drawing off a large quantity of serum from the pleural cavity, thus removing the painful pressure on the lung. The operation was entirely successful, and his holiness experienced great relief.

Sleep Is Refreshing.
Immediately he began to improve and enjoyed a refreshing sleep during the afternoon. Bulletins issued by the physicians early indicated that their patient's improvement has continued, and that his condition is now sufficiently satisfactory, while still very grave, of course. His circulation and breathing are slow, but are gradually improving.

The marvelous vitality and recuperative energy of the pope were never so forcibly demonstrated as by the series of events preceding, accompanying, and following the operation. After a lengthy conference the doctors concluded it was advisable to operate for pleurisy, the primary purpose being to explore the affected parts. They hoped incidentally to draw off the collected fluid.

Agrees to Operation.
When first informed that the operation would perhaps be necessary, his holiness began to inquire about it. Turning to Dr. Lapponi with his usual familiarity, he asked, "Will it be painful? Remember, I cannot stand much pain."
Instead of Dr. Lapponi, Dr. Mazzoni answered:
"I can assure your holiness that you will feel no pain. A little cocaine will deaden all sensation."

Pope Leo, retorted, at once, "Remember, you said the same thing when you extracted that cyst a few years ago."

Dr. Mazzoni replied:
"That operation went very well, but this can hardly be called an operation."

The pope then concluded:
"Then do whatever you think best."

Relatives Are Excluded.
When the operation took place nobody was allowed in the room besides the doctors except Pope Leo's valet, Pio Centra. Even his nephew, Count Camillo Pecci, left the room to await with extreme anxiety in an adjoining hall the result.

The doctors, desiring a strong light, had the window widely opened, but as it faces the bed, the light offended the weak eyes of the pontiff, so that it was thought desirable that he should reverse his position. As soon as this was proposed the Pope himself made a movement, showing again that spirit of activity and determination which seems constantly to inspire him. Dr. Mazzoni, however, did not give him time to leave the bed, but taking him in his arms, literally turned the pontiff about. Pope Leo smiled and exclaimed, "Bravo, Professor; I congratulate you. Although I have become so light, I must still be rather heavy."

Surprises Physicians.
Both the doctors laughed and were at the same time astonished at the brightness of the pontiff when oppressed by such a dangerous illness and on the point of undergoing a surgical operation necessary for saving his life.

The immediate direction of the operation devolved on Dr. Mazzoni, who handled the instruments and made the preparatory arrangements. First a slight incision was made in the side of the venerable patient. A solution of alcohol and corrosive sublimate was then injected, and cocaine was used to deaden the sensation. The point of operation was just below the seventh rib and the operation itself consisted in the insertion of a large Pravaz needle syringe. This penetrated to the region where the matter had accumulated, and by means of suction slowly drew it off. Under the skillful guidance of Dr. Mazzoni, the operation scarcely occupied over four minutes.

Immediate Relief.
So soon as the liquid was drawn off by the suction needle the patient felt great relief, owing to the removal of the pressure of the liquid on the lung, and simultaneously the doctors could hear air passing through that zone which was declared to be impervious, owing to congestion. From a pathological standpoint the free passage of air was considered satisfactory, but more so were the results, the mental and physical relief which it brought to the Pope.

Pope Leo remained sitting up in bed during the whole time of the operation, without need of support. When Dr. Mazzoni substituted the Pravaz needle with a Potain aspirator the Pope did not even notice it, going through the whole affair without emitting the slightest lament and without showing any feeling of pain. He was extremely pale, almost diaphanous, and somewhat tremulous.

Compliments Attendants.
As soon as the operation was closed his holiness felt much relieved. His eye, from an expression of languid melancholy, assumed its usual vivacity, illuminating the emaciated face. Dr. Mazzoni at once administered a cordial, which the pontiff took willingly, thanking him with a grateful look for the brave struggle to preserve his life.

He afterward expressed a desire to see the liquid which had been extracted from his thorax. Both doctors assured him that his wish would be gratified later. The pontiff then asked for minute particulars of the apparatus used in the operation.

"It is a most ingenious instrument," he said, "but your hand is also so very clever. That is why the operation was successful in not giving me any pain. I thank you."

Extends His Blessing.
With a slight smile on his pallid face he whispered his thankfulness and bestowed benedictions on the doctors bending over him. The pontiff

FAMOUS BALL PLAYER
JUMPS INTO THE RIVER

Deleahanty of the Washington Club Is Thought to Have Committed Suicide.

Washington, July 8.—There is little doubt that E. Deleahanty, the famous ballplayer, committed suicide or was accidentally drowned at Fort Erie, Ont., on the night of July 2. A letter received by Mrs. Deleahanty says that an unknown man on the night in question had a fight with a bridge-tender at Fort Erie and a moment or two after fell or jumped into the river.
A dress suit case was recovered and in this was found baseball ticket No. 25, issued by the Washington club to Deleahanty. Deleahanty was despondent in not being able to accept the larger salary offered him by the New York National League club. The day he left Detroit he had taken out an accident policy made payable to his little daughter and he wrote a letter in which he expressed the hope that the train he was taking would run off the track or that something would happen to him.

Valuable Book Sold.

The Gaelic version of Knox's Liturgy, which was sold in London for £500, belonged to the Duke of Argyll. It was printed in Edinburgh by Robert Leperell, April, 1567, duodecimo, and appears to be the copy referred to by Lowndes as being "in the possession of the Duke of Argyll." It wants the signature, but it is otherwise perfect.

Advertising Signs Must Go.

All advertising signs along the banks of the Rhine, Moselle, Nahe and Ahr must be removed, according to the decree of the police president of Coblenz. The work of removing the billboards and other devices which have so long disfigured the landscape has already begun.

Pittsburg, July 8.—The horror of the Sunday flood at Jeanette is not yet over and the search for bodies still continues with unabating labor. Many of those thought lost have returned to their homes safe and sound.

Twenty-one Bodies

Thus far twenty-one bodies have been recovered and there still remains a large acreage of land covered with debris to be gone over carefully before this number is considered all that were lost.

Many Missing

While some of the missing have returned home the list is increasing in numbers very considerably and it is now in the neighborhood of a hundred who are thought to have been drowned when the dam broke, flooding the park.

Marriage.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 8.—The funerals of Frank Malley and Miss Ada Patterson took place on the hour which had been appointed for their wedding. The death of the young couple occurred while they were out boat-riding, a squall upsetting their boat. When the bodies were recovered from the water they were locked in each other's arms.

Rev. J. E. Lockwood, who was to have performed the wedding ceremony, conducted the funeral services. The bride lay in her coffin in her wedding dress of pure white, which she had prepared with the rest of her trousseau. After the services a procession was formed and the mourners conveyed the two coffins to the common grave which had been prepared for those lovers who in death had not been separated.

Agreement With the United States Association Is Not Renewed.

Cincinnati, O., July 8.—A conference was held here between the members of the United States Spirits association and Angelo Myers of Philadelphia, a representative of the Standard Distilling & Distributing company, relative to the renewal of the agreement between them which expired on July 1. No agreement could be reached and no contracts will be signed. This leaves the members of the spirits association free to buy their spirits in the open market hereafter. Under the old contract they used about 40,000,000 annually. The members of the organization decided to continue the organization and re-elected the old officials.

WOMAN INCITES MOB TO TAKE PRISONER

Attempts to Overpower Sheriff and Capture Music Teacher Accused of Attempted Assault.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 8.—The town of Sweetser, Grant county, was the scene of great excitement when a mob, led by a woman of that place, attempted to take U. S. Williams, a music teacher, from the custody of the sheriff and lynch him for an alleged assault upon a young girl. The latter is the 12-year-old daughter of Abner Beach, and when she reported to her mother that Williams had attempted to assault her the alarm was given and fifty men assisted the mother in her search for Williams.

In the meantime the sheriff had been notified and hurried to Williams' studio and placed him under arrest. The sheriff was in the act of leaving the studio with his prisoner when the citizens, led by Mrs. Beach, appeared upon the scene.

Mrs. Beach pleaded with her neighbors not to let the sheriff take Williams away alive, and in the excitement led the advance upon the sheriff. The latter swore in a deputy on the spot, and when the mother and the crowd advanced he threatened to have them arrested if they interfered with him in the discharge of his duty. Mrs. Beach made an effort to take the prisoner from the sheriff as the crowd drew back, and the sheriff hurried him into a buggy and drove out of the town in a hurry.

Williams was placed in jail at Marion, but was taken to another county through fear that an attempt would be made to lynch him.

STREETS QUIETER

The Negroes Go to Work
This Morning, and Are Not Molested
by Anybody.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)

Evansville, July 8.—With the presence of a large body of state troops here this morning all is quiet. The funeral of August Jordan, one of the innocent bystanders in Monday night's riots occurred this morning. The rest of the victims will be buried tomorrow. Many negroes are to be found today working on the streets unmolested and everything has taken a quiet aspect. It is expected normal conditions will soon be resumed. The commander of the state troops announces the lack of brave policemen Monday night was the cause of all the trouble.

Troops Present

Eight companies of militia and a battery armed with a galling gun hold the lawless elements of the town in check. Fully 600 armed soldiers are patrolling the streets or are encamped in convenient localities all over the city, and Brig. Gen. W. J. McKee of Indianapolis, commander of the Indiana national guard, is the city's real executive so far as maintaining law and order is concerned.

As a result of the presence of the troops and the carnage of Monday night the people are keeping off the streets.

Result of Volley.
Eleven dead, three others fatally hurt and thirty more or less injured is the result of the volley poured into the mob at the courthouse. In addition to the fatalities reported, four additional men have died. They are: Jacob E. Beck, Fred Kappler, Frank Lambie, Charles Taylor.

The others fatally wounded are still alive, but it is said cannot recover. John Barrett is dying from his shot wounds, received from the volley fired into the mob, and his physicians say he cannot live.

Militia Mobilizes.

The Terre Haute militia company arrived and relieved the tired Vincennes and Evansville companies in guarding the jail. An hour later Brig. Gen. W. J. McKee arrived and assumed command of the troops. A special train arrived bearing companies A, Capt. Garrard; C, Capt. Power; D, Capt. Conley, and H, Capt. Franklin, all of Indianapolis, and members of the Second regiment; battery A, First artillery, of Indianapolis, Capt. Callen, with a galling gun, and company K, First regiment, of Martinsville.

The troops were marched heavily armed through a quietly curious crowd of several thousand people. As the galling gun was unloaded and wheeled into line it created a visible impression.

Negroes Keep Away.

There was not a negro in sight. The streets were deserted with the exception of a few boys, and at every corner were seen policemen armed with rifles and revolvers. When the special train arrived with the 300 troops from Indianapolis and Martinsville the Evansville, Terre Haute and Vincennes companies were encamped around the courthouse and jail, with sentries and picket lines out. No one was allowed to approach within 300 yards of the jail. The troops were met by Gen. McKee, and the Martinsville company was ordered to relieve the companies around the jail for a part of the night, while the Indianapolis companies and the battery were encamped in Sunset park, six squares from the jail.

Mayor Is Criticized.

As the troops marched through the streets with the galling gun rattling over the pavement, a bystander shouted from a group assembled at a street corner:

"There won't be anything done until you fellows leave, but watch out then. We don't care how long you stay. We can wait."

The soldiers paid no attention, but the cry was remembered and commented upon.

Gen. McKee on his arrival held a consultation with the mayor and a committee of fifteen prominent citizens designated by him as a committee of safety. At this meeting there were some expressions of severe criticism over the course of Mayor Covert.

Gen. McKee asked for the co-operation of Sheriff Krats, but that official telephoned from the jail "ha. It would be death for him to leave the protection of the troops, and he is still entrenched behind the guns of the soldiers and the walls of the prison."

Miss McMillan of Fort Atkinson, was in town on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hardy are home from their wedding trip.

Frank Wheelock is home from a successful trip on the road.

Mrs. George Crane and little daughter left for Spokane today.

Edward Stevens spent the Fourth with his parents.

CROPS NEEDED HEAVY RAINS

In the Rocky Mountain Districts Frost Has Damaged the Grain Considerably.

The crop report issued today by the weather bureau says the week ending July 6 was the most favorable of the season, giving ample and much needed heat in all districts east of the Rocky mountains. Drought in the northern portion of the spring wheat region has been relieved, but need of rain is beginning to be felt in the Ohio valley, portions of the central gulf states and in western Texas. In the central and northern Rocky mountain districts and on the north Pacific coast it has been too cool, frost more or less damaging occurring from July 2 to July 4 in Idaho, Wyoming, and Utah.

Under the favorable temperature conditions corn has made rapid advancement in the central valleys and is now greatly improved and generally well cultivated. In the northern portion of the middle Atlantic states, in the upper Ohio valley lake region, and the Dakotas the crop continues backward, but is improving, though needing cultivation in many parts of these districts. In the southern states corn is largely late by, an unusually fine crop being practically assured in the west gulf districts.

Harvesting of winter wheat has progressed under favorable conditions and is nearing completion in portions of the great central districts. Threshing is also in general progress, with yields lighter than anticipated in nearly all districts. Winter wheat is now ripening on the north Pacific coast, the crop being practically safe in Washington. High winds and excessive heat have caused injury in California in some sections, but excellent yields are reported from the southern part of the state.

Early spring wheat has sustained permanent injury in portions of North Dakota and northern Minnesota from drought, which has been broken by abundant rains, that were of great benefit to the late crop. In southern Minnesota and parts of South Dakota lodging and rust are reported. In Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas and on the north Pacific coast the crop is progressing satisfactorily. Spring wheat is now heading in the Dakotas.

The outlook for oats in Minnesota and South Dakota is improved and the crop continues generally promising in the states of the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys. A light crop, however, is indicated in the Ohio valley and portions of Illinois and southern Missouri.

Cotton has made rapid growth throughout the cotton belt, an improvement being shown in all districts, the reports from the Carolinas and Georgia indicating the most decided advancement. Wet weather has, however, been unfavorable in portions of Louisiana and Texas, where the crop is grassy, being quite foul in northern Texas, in which boll weevil are causing considerable damage and continue to increase.

In the most important tobacco states tobacco has made fine growth, the condition of the crop being promising except in southwestern Ohio, where rain is needed, and in Pennsylvania, where a slow growth is reported.

Cutting and curing continue in the Carolinas.

The outlook for apples appears to be somewhat more promising in the Ohio valley and portions of the middle Atlantic states and fair to good crops are indicated in Michigan, Tennessee and Iowa. Poor prospects are reported from Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, and West Virginia, and in New York the outlook is less favorable.

In the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys an excellent crop of hay is being secured and further improvement in the condition of the crop is reported from New England and the middle Atlantic states.

CHANGE COMES IN ROAD BUILDING

Railways Must Fix Their Tracks to Meet the Existing Conditions.

In the last few years freight rates on railroads have gradually become lower, and this reduction is due to many causes, says the "Financial Review." Some changes that have brought about this lessening of rates are: Larger locomotives, more powerful cars, the straightening of tracks, the practice of making train loads to the full capacity of the locomotive. Hardly a month passes that some locomotive plant does not turn out an engine larger and heavier than any built before. To allow these locomotives to make time with loaded trains from a quarter to a half mile in length it has been necessary on many roads practically to rebuild the whole track, employing heavier rails and stronger bridges and straightening the line by minimizing grades and curves. The New York Central has been at heavy expense to bring its roadbed up to the highest efficiency, and the B. & O. is carrying out a vast plan of alteration. The whole movement makes for ultimate economy.

Ten years ago ordinary freight cars weighed ten tons and carried ten tons; now they weigh about fifteen tons and carry thirty. These cars, loaded to their fullest capacity, are formed into trains that require the greatest horsepower of big Mols and Consolidation engines to hurry them over even well-equipped and modern roadbeds. In France an engine that is supposed to draw twelve cars must be helped by another engine if two extra cars are added to the train. On American roads it is customary to add two or four or a dozen extra cars and make one engine pull them all; by such methods freight charges are kept down.

SETTLERS' RATES MUCH DISCUSSED

Western Passenger Association Will Discuss the Present Methods.

Whether it is legal for land agents of railroads and other real estate dealers to refund the price paid for tickets to purchasers of land will be discussed at a meeting next Thursday of the executive committee of the Western Passenger Association in Chicago.

One of the western lines has made a complaint to the association that the lines to the northwest, through their land agents, practically have been furnishing free transportation to land buyers. Under this arrangement, it is alleged, persons are induced to go to the northwest and become settlers who otherwise might go to the west and southwest.

"I think we can stop agents of the railroad companies from refunding the cost of transportation to purchasers of land from the railways, but I am not so sure that we can prevent real-estate agents who are not employed by the railroads from giving free tickets to purchasers of land," said an official of one of the western lines. "Even if the real-estate agent sells land for a railroad company, so long as he only receives a commission and is not a regular employee of the company, probably he can deduct from the price of the land the amount paid by the purchaser for his ticket—from here to Oregon, for example. We believe that the refunding of money paid for tickets in order to induce persons to settle in the northwest is likely to result in others than actual buyers of land getting free transportation for reduced rates. There has always been more or less manipulation of rates for settlers in the northwest."

"We are not offering free transportation as an inducement for people to go to the northwest and become settlers," said the representative of one of the Northwestern lines. "I believe that from a business standpoint we could well afford to give free transportation to individuals and whole families if they would become settlers along our line. A different policy has been adopted by the railroads, however, and we are not departing from it. I think this agitation over the refunding of tickets is due to the jealousy of the lines to the southwest over the number of persons seeking homes in the northwest."

CADDIES STRIKE FOR HIGHER PAY

DIVERSION CREATED AT LINKS BEFORE YESTERDAY'S MATCH.

ROCKFORD WAS BURIED DEEP

Mississippi Golfers Didn't Do a Thing to Illinoisans—First Home Match a Glowing Victory.

One of the interesting developments of the Rockford-Janesville match at the Mississippi links yesterday was an incident strike. As a party drove up Magnolia avenue toward the clubhouse they were met by a bunch of caddies, whose faces instantly gave away the fact that there was something doing.

"What's the trouble, boys," called J. P. Baker.

"We're striking; we want five cents more a round or we won't caddy for you," said the oldest of them, who is one of the well-known caddies at the links. "We're union." Arbitration was not resorted to. Leaving the youngsters standing in the center of the road, the party drove on. The strikers not only failed of securing the desired twenty cents a round, but were forced to go without their customary fifteen cents, for not one of them was engaged at any price.

Fortunately only a detachment of the entire force of caddies had joined the organized laborers, and by calling in a few volunteers the match progressed as satisfactorily as though union ideas had never been instilled in the infantile brain.

Trimmed Visitors Easily

Perfect familiarity with the course over which they were playing, combined with superior golfing, enabled the Mississippi team to defeat the Rockford Country club visitors by the rich margin of seventy-four holes. A neighborly feeling on the part of the locals alone restrained them, in a number of instances, from administering a more merciless drubbing.

Despite the rough handling they received, the Forest City players were emphatic in their admiration of Janesville—the club members, the entertainment, and the beautiful natural links which have made the Mississippi club famous over a wide area.

Admired Local Links

The visitors found both the fair and putting greens decidedly more rapid than those to which they were accustomed, although the inclination of many of the latter was a knock-out drop to some pretty approaches. On their home links the putting greens are all "made" and are consequently level as a billiard table.

Then, too, the Mississippi course is several hundred yards longer than that in the Forest City, and the unwanted area to be covered together with the fact that several of the visitors were playing their first match left them more strongly exhausted than was pleasant.

Out of the twenty-three pairs, only two resulted in defeat for the locals and three in ties.

Chester Brewer carried off the score laurels of the day, making his rounds in 41 and 42.

Visiting Professional

The playing of McLeod, the Rockford professional, who played an exhibition game against the best ball of A. Schaller and F. Keeler, the two men who from their past records are top-notchers of their respective clubs, brought forth a volume of admiring comment. He defeated them one up, his card showing 39 strokes. By virtue of a beautiful put, which was almost a fluke, he negotiated the ninth hole—559 yards in length—in 4, an almost unprecedented accomplishment.

Fred McLeod is today playing in a professional match at Hinsdale, and will go later to Milwaukee. He declares the Mississippi links more similar in character to those in his native land, than any others he has played upon in this land and promises to visit Janesville once a week hereafter with the purpose of negotiating a round some later day which will make his 39 card of yesterday look sick. He is a young fellow with the broadest kind of an accent and a general "hoot mon" appearance.

Tracy in Charge

E. J. Tracy's untiring services as master of events were of the greatest advantage in hustling through the unwieldy list of entries, the last pair of which did not hand in their card until nearly dusk. He was also official score keeper of the day. Janesville's men were captained by Al Schaller as in the previous matches this season, while Capt. Trille guided the Illinoisans.

Before leaving the Rockford people elicited from the Janesville golfers a promise to visit them at Rockford any or every Sunday, and a number will avail themselves of the invitation next Sunday.

A return match will be played later, probably early next month.

Notes of the match
The result was rather of a surprise party after the showing made by the Rockford visitors here Sunday.

The day was ideal. Many partook of the supper at the clubhouse who had not notified the chef, and the result was an unpleasant shortage in provisions.

The special car took the Rockfordites back at 8:15, so any evening entertainment was barred.

Nearly fifteen ladies accompanied the visiting players.

One of Rockford's stiffest golfers is barely fifteen years of age. Another player who puts up a hard and consistent battle is one of the veterans of the team.

LAW DECISIONS FOR LAYMEN

Recent Court Rulings That Will Interest the Busy Reader Very Much.

The father of a prisoner, shortly after the commission of the alleged crime, pointed a shotgun at his head and said: "James, you are my prisoner. I have a right to arrest you. You say, go to Harrison and tell the sheriff, county attorney, and coroner's jury all about the killing of H. R. and you will get clear; but if you don't, you will get convicted. Accused consented to the demand of his father, and made a confession to the officers named. Held, that such confession was not made voluntarily, and could not be used as evidence against the prisoner. Further confessions by the prisoner, subsequent to such extorted confession, will be equally inadmissible, if so related to point of surrounding circumstances and proximity of time as to raise a presumption that the influence resulting from the first confession have not ceased to operate upon his mind. 95 Northwestern Rep. (Nebraska, Judge Kirkpatrick) 42.

Proof

The burden of proof that a transfer of property from father to son was fraudulent, and made to hinder, delay and defraud creditors, is upon the creditor alleging that fact. No presumption of fraud arises from the fact of relationship, nor from the fact that the father was insolvent at the time of the transfer. Such facts are but ear-marks or badges of fraud casting only a suspicion upon the transaction. 95 Northwestern Rep. (Minnesota, Judge Brown) 214.

JUDGE LYON WILL LEAVE THE STATE

Nestor of the Board of Control Will Resign—Well Known Here.

It is announced in Madison that Judge William Penn Lyon, the nestor of the state board of control, is to resign his position and that he will go west to end his days with his son in California. Judge Lyon is well known to many Janesville people, not only through his connection with the board of control nor a member of the supreme court, but as the colonel commanding the famous Thirteenth regiment in which so many Rock county veterans served during the civil war. This was the regiment in which such men as William Ruge, Major Stevens, Captain Norcross, Captain Edward Ruge and many other prominent citizens held commissions.

Long and Busy Life

Judge Lyon was born at Chatham, N. Y., Oct. 28, 1822. In 1841 he came with his father to Wisconsin, living at Lyons, Walworth county, until 1850. The father died in Madison a dozen years ago past 90 years of age. It was at Walworth county that Miss Adella C. Duncan became the bride of the young barrister who was later to attain the chief justiceship. Judge Lyon worked on a farm, taught school, and in 1846 was admitted to the bar. He removed to Burlington, Racine county, in 1850, and five years later to Racine. He was district attorney there for four years, and was speaker of the assembly in 1859 and 1860. He served during the civil war, one year as a captain in the Eighth Wisconsin regiment and three as colonel of the Thirteenth Wisconsin regiment. He delivered the oration at the presentation of the battle flags to the state, and has spoken on many other public occasions at the capital and elsewhere. He was judge of the Racine judicial circuit for five years, and one of the justices of the supreme court from 1871 to 1894, many of the later years as chief justice. He came first to the supreme bench by appointment of Gov. Fairchild. For two years after retiring he rested, but in 1896 he was offered an appointment to the board of control and since then has kept from rusting out by maintaining a watchful, intelligent, just and kindly eye on the great charitable, reformatory and penal interests of the commonwealth. His term does not expire till April 15, 1905, but he expects Gov. La Follette to accept his resignation and permit him to retire within a week.

Even Talks.

Fish stories told by excursionists who went into the country during the Fourth are still heard. One young man visited some friends at their summer home up the river. The morning after the Fourth he happened to be strolling along the river bank at an early hour and noticed, so he said, a peculiar rustling in the meadow near the stream. He returned to the house and questioned his host concerning it. "It was caused by the carp," said the latter, "the river is full of German carp—they climb out in the early morning and graze in the fields—they thrive on hay." "Oh," said the young man.

An engineer also related a weird tale concerning the same members of the funny tribe and accused them of even worse things. He happened to be standing near the shore of Lake Koshong and noticed a frog sitting fully four feet from the water's edge, when suddenly he saw a huge fish, which proved to be a carp, wiggle stealthily out of the water and pounce upon the unsuspecting frog, swallow it and return to the lake.

Edison's Lone Speech.

Edison has made but one speech in his life; it was not a brilliant one. He had agreed to lecture on electricity before a girls' seminary, and had engaged a friend named Adams to work the apparatus while he talked. But when the inventor arose to address his audience he felt so dazed that he simply said: "Ladies, Mr. Adams will now address you on electricity, and I will demonstrate what he has to say with the apparatus."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Value of Petroleum Fuel.

In tests of petroleum fuel for passenger locomotives on the Florida East Coast railroad, which is as level as the sea it parallels, it required six and three-quarters gallons per mile run. This showed 132 gallons of oil to be equal to a ton of coal. On the Boston & Maine railway the helper engine at the Hoosac tunnel, working on grade of forty-two per mile, showed 140 gallons of oil equal to a ton of coal.

DR. HICKS TELLS OF JULY WEATHER

The Veteran Weather Man Has Fixed This Month to Suit Himself.

Rev. Dr. Hicks, he of the weather fame has laid out the weather for July with his usual precision. It may be interesting to read his predictions and then to see just how the weather turns out. Sometimes the doctor is right and sometimes he is way off. He starts in with a second storm period beginning yesterday. The following is for the rest of the month.

The Second Period

This period extends from the 7th to the 11th, being central on the 9th, the moon being at the extreme south on the 7th, full on the 9th and in apogee on the 10th. The mercury influence is supposed also to culminate also about these dates. Things to look for: The first stages of this period will bring extremely warm weather with south winds and falling barometer. About the 9th, cloudiness and storms will form in western extremes, and begin their eastward march across the country, reaching their culminating stages on the 10th and 11th. The storm clouds at this time are apt to be quite black and threatening and the barometer is much below normal, violent winds are entirely probable. Heavy local dashes of rain will be natural, but we do not believe that wide spread and soaking rains will fall. Behind the blustering storminess and thunder look for rising barometer, westerly winds, and cooler, clearing weather.

Reactionary

The 14th and 15th are the central days of this period, having the moon on the celestial equator on the 15th. Things to look for: Another great wave, or pulsation of heat will arise at this time, along with which the barometer will fall, and many electrical, threatening storm clouds will arise on and touching the 15th. As a rule, July brings some of the most ominous looking clouds of the whole year, but they often pass with high bluster, thunder and lightning and light rain. Such will be the general outcome during this period with heavy local downpours of rain, over very limited areas. Change to rising barometer and cool weather will come about the 16th to 18th.

Regular

This period runs from the 15th to 24th, and is central on the 20th. As shown by the storm program, the Mars period which is central in August, begins at the time of this storm period. It is a rule rarely broken, that the general character of the weather which may be prevailing at the beginning of a Mars period continues until the end. We may, therefore, reasonably say that this fourth storm period in July will foreshadow the general character of storm and weather to be expected from now until the end of August. That warm weather is to be expected at this season all understand; but all common sense people know that there is a great difference in the weather at this season in different years. Let us, therefore, see if we do not get the clue to the condition likely to prevail for six weeks to come, at this fourth storm period. Things to look for: We believe that a general and persistent heated term will prevail at this time, that the barometer will not indicate high humidity, but that some very deceptive storm clouds will appear, bringing some heavy gusts of wind and dust, but blowing over with only light rain, except in narrow localities. The new moon in perigee on the 24th promises to delay and drag the phenomena of the fourth period up to about that day. In this event there will be some quite heavy storms on and about the 24th, which perturbed condition will lead forward into the next period.

Reactionary

The 25th, 26th and 27th are central days of a reactionary storm period, on and about which days there will be a climax of summer heat, unless severe thunder storms develop about the 24th. We suggest that the things to look for at this period will be an excessively warm wave, and that about the 27th there will come a rapid fall of the barometer, quickly followed by wicked wind and thunder storms in many parts of the country. Light winds will accompany these storms in most places, with possible cloud bursts in scattered localities. A rising barometer and change to cooler weather will follow these storms for a few days. July comes to its close with the first stages of a regular storm period forming in western sections.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Generally fair tonight and cooler Thursday.

EXPORTS

Exports from the United States to Canada in the fiscal year just ended show a larger total than in any preceding year. Eleven months figures, just completed by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce show that the increase in exports to "British North America" has been 12 million dollars in the eleven months of 1903 compared with the corresponding months of the preceding and indicate that the increase for the entire fiscal year will be something more than 12 million dollars. This is a larger increase than in any year in the history of our commerce with Canada except 1898, when the increase was slightly greater than that of the last fiscal year. Under the term "British North America" the Bureau of Statistics groups Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, and the Northwest Territory; Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island; Newfoundland and Labrador; and British Columbia. By far the most important of these groups, commercially, is Quebec, Ontario, etc., the exports from the United States to which form 87 per cent. of the total exports to British North America; and it is in the exports to those provinces that the chief growth has occurred. During the eleven months ending with May the total value of exports to Quebec, Ontario, etc., was 58 million dollars; against 87 millions in the corresponding months of the preceding year; to Nova Scotia, etc., the total was 7 millions, against five and one-half millions in the 11 months of 1902; to British Columbia, 5 and one-half millions, compared with 7 millions in the preceding year; and to Newfoundland and Labrador, two and one-half millions, against a little less than two millions in the same months of 1902.

The total exports to British North America from the U. S. for the full fiscal year seem likely to be about 125 millions, against 112 millions in 1902, 107 millions in 1901, and 97 millions in 1900.

Not only has the growth in exports from the United States to Canada been greater in the year just ended than in any preceding year with a single exception, but that growth has been greater than to any other country except Germany. To Germany the increase in 11 months of 1903, for which figures are now available was 21 millions; to Mexico, the increase was two millions; to Argentina, 1 and one-half millions; to all of South America, 2 and one-half millions; and to all of Africa, four millions. Thus the actual increase in our exportations to Canada in the fiscal year just ended will be greater than to any other country except Germany.

Meanwhile the imports into the United States from Canada have grown, but not with equal rapidity. The total imports for the year just ended will amount to about 55 million dollars, against a total of 48 millions imported from British North America in the fiscal year 1902. Comparing 1903 with 1893. The growth will amount to about 17 million dollars, the total imports from British North America for 1903 having been about 35 million dollars; while the growth in our exports to British North America during the same period will be about 77 millions. Thus the total exports to British North America from the United States are a little more than double the imports into the United States from that section, and the growth in exports between 1893 and 1903 has been twice as great as the growth in imports.

The most important articles which form that exportation of 125 millions to British North America are, stating them in the relative order of value, manufactures of iron and steel; coal breadstuffs; raw cotton; manufactures of cotton; agricultural implements; chemicals; lumber; and manufactures of wood.

NO TIME TO EXPERIMENT

No one who considers the tariff question should overlook the fact that one of the chief benefits of Protection is the assurance it gives of continued and remunerative employment. A nation should, as far as practicable, do its own work. A country which by paying a slightly higher price for domestic products, keeps its population employed is in a better condition than one that stifles home production for the sake of purchasing at a lower rate abroad.

Our people should follow the advice of Senator Hanna and not only let well enough alone, but keep on letting well enough alone. We are enjoying unexampled prosperity now and we should not endanger this by grasping at what would prove to be only a shadow. It is no time to experiment with the methods of promoting prosperity when we already have all the prosperity that reasonable people can ask.

WHAT IT MEANS

The postoffice investigations have brought out one fact at least: There are a lot of people in the United States who think a cabinet officer, like the postmaster general, with several hundred thousand government employees under his supervision ought to know whether any one of them on a particular day, allowed some person not connected with the department to use government soap and towels in washing his face, and whether, on another day, a janitor used seven, instead of six bushels of coal. The idea that great questions of management, involved millions, so occupy the postmaster general's time that he can't personally attend to such things, seem never to have occurred to these people.

PROOF

The American Free-Traders are professing to be fearful that if Great Britain takes to protection the result will be a "tariff wall" which will exclude our products, and thus we will be deprived of a big and valuable market. The Free-Traders are unnecessarily alarmed. Great Britain, if it adopts protection, will not "exclude" anything. It really needs, any more than does the United States. And as for "tariff walls" American industry under protection has developed to the point where it manages to scale most of them. For proof, see the progress made in our trade with other protection countries.

SAME HOWL

The present democratic hue and cry against the tariff, under the claim that the conditions have changed since the Dingley law was enacted are not honest. The democrats were no more satisfied with the provisions of the Dingley law, when enacted than they are now, and they do not now seek to simply readjust tariff schedules, and still leave them Protective to American industry and labor.

In the year 1696 one Class Tilly, a citizen of Harlem, in Holland, discovered a combination of oils and gums, which on trial proved a wonderful remedy for kidney trouble, also very healing for wounds and gravel. That was over three hundred years ago. This remedy is still made by the descendants of Class Tilly and sold by us for 10c the bottle. To get the genuine buy it of us. ASSOCIATION IS REINCORPORATED

Y. M. C. A. FILES NEW ARTICLES OF ORGANIZATION.

FILED AT MADISON TUESDAY

Revised Constitution Is Reason For Placing The New Articles Among Public Documents.

Revised articles of incorporation for the Young Men's Christian association were filed with the secretary of state at Madison yesterday.

F. F. Lewis, president, and Archie Crawford, secretary, appear as the incorporators. The association has no capital stock.

The reason of the re-incorporation at this time, is the fact that extensive changes were made in the constitution of the association at the last annual meeting.

Under these alterations there are fifteen directors, instead of twelve. These directors are chosen for varying periods, so that the terms of five expire each year, whereas previously the entire board of directors was chosen anew each year.

The board of directors also elect the officers of the association from among their numbers. Formerly the association, as a body, elected the officers.

ST. MARY'S PLAN ENTERTAINMENTS

Organ Recital and Lecture Are But the Beginning of Long Series of Evenings.

Plans are being made at St. Mary's church for a series of Sunday evening entertainments, at intervals of about a month.

They will be of a class which will appeal to a large proportion of the congregation. Musical evenings will be varied with lectures and addresses on various topics.

The two numbers which have been given thus far—the concert by Rosa C'Erina several weeks ago and the lecture by Father Robert Condon of Reedsburg which was given last Sunday evening, have both proved of marked interest. The next number has not been announced.

SECOND OPEN AIR CONCERT

Imperial Band Gives Another Popular Program.

The Corn Exchange square was the scene of the weekly Imperial band concert which was given last evening. There was not the same fixed crowd that heard the last concert, as there was no opportunity for the listeners to secure comfortable seats for the evening, but a large throng were constantly going and coming on the sidewalk of the adjacent streets. Following is the program given:

March Storm King
Overture Don Quixote
Concert Bewitching Beauty
Intermezzo Cupid Charming
Waltz El Paso
Ragtime Colored Bazar
Selection King Dodo
Two Step Hiawatha

A RUSSIAN HONEYMOON BY A MOST CAPABLE CAST

Walton Pyre, a Former University Student Takes His Own Company Out for Summer Run.

Supported by many of Madison's most promising actresses Mr. Walton Pyre, a former university student and at one time an instructor in the Evansville high school, will tomorrow evening present "A Russian Honeymoon" at the Myers Grand opera house. Mr. Pyre has chosen for his support in this venture many of Madison's most promising young actresses. Among them are Miss Fola La Follette and Miss Edith Gibson. Aside from these he has many of the members of Mr. Otis Skinner's company in which Mr. Pyre himself was last season as a support. Miss La Follette is the eldest daughter of Gov. La Follette and this is her first attempt at the legitimate work of an actress. She has her father's decided talent in this line and her work will be watched with much interest. Miss Gibson is the daughter of James Gibson, an official on the North-Western road. She has had a careful musical training during the past year in Europe and as there is much singing in the production she will add greatly to the cast. Mr. Pyre himself is well known to Janesville audiences and his many friends here are planning an informal reception for him on his arrival tomorrow noon.

WEDDING BELLS RING AT ST. PATRICK'S TODAY

Walsh-McCaffrey and Connell-Donahue Nuptials Occur One Hour Apart.

At St. Patrick's church this morning two weddings occurred at an interval of one hour.

The first marriage occurred at seven o'clock, when Miss Nellie Walsh was wedded to Frank McCaffrey, foreman at the Heddies warehouse. Miss Minnie Walsh and William Murphy attended them. Rev. J. J. McGinnity was the officiating clergyman. After a breakfast at the home of the bride the couple departed for a week's stay at Milwaukee. At eight o'clock Miss Kittle Connell was married to Joseph Donahue, Dean E. M. McGinnity officiating. Miss Dorothy Madouise and Tom Nolan were the attendant couple. Dinner was served at the home of the bride in Willowdale, after which Mr. and Mrs. Donahue left on a month's wedding journey.

Meet Thursday: The Ladies' Missionary societies of the Congregational church will meet Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. A full attendance is requested. Tea will be served as usual.

GENERAL MIX-UP ON RAILROAD

Cars Jump the Track Near Darlington, and Wrecking Crew Is Sent Out.

At seven thirty o'clock this morning one of the cars in a train going into Darlington, 66 miles west of here, jumped the track, turned over and caused a general mix-up. The wrecking train from Janesville was ordered to the wreck at once and soon put things to right. No one was hurt and as the trouble occurred off the main line, there was but little delay.

CALLED "THE NEW MYERS"

THAT IS THE NAME CHOSEN FOR REMODELED HOTEL.

THE NEW PROPRIETOR WRITES

Says He Is Awaiting Return Of His Partner From New York When He Will Come Here.

"The New Myers" is the name under which the remodeled hotel at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets is to be known to the public. John Myers today received a letter from "Colonel" Garrison saying that he had had all plans drawn for a mammoth electric sign to be placed upon the roof of the building.

The letter was dated at the Great Northern, Chicago, and spoke confidently of the possibility that Mr. Garrison will come to this city within a few days. He advised that the doors on the front be placed directly in the center, and that they be of the same style as the doors in the Jackson block.

Mr. Garrison said that the man who is interested with him in the hotel deal is at present in New York, and that upon his return there will be no further delay in the process of completely remodeling the building, within and out, and bringing it up to its former standard of popularity with the travelling public.

WORKING UPON NEW TYPE CULTIVATOR

E. M. Heylman of Janesville Machine Company, at Work on Plans for Improved Machine.

E. M. Heylman, head of the designing, drafting and pattern departments of the Janesville Machine Co. is now working upon a two row corn cultivator which will be put on the market under the "Bower City" name.

The two-row cultivator is a recent development, and is now made by only a few companies. The Janesville Machine company has thus far made them only as an experimental proposition, and Mr. Heylman is now bending his energies to perfect the machine.

A cultivator which can do the work on two rows at the same time thereby halving the time required to cover the field is a logical development in line with the gang plow and similar labor and time saving inventions. Mr. Heylman already has a long list of patents to his credit.

Applications for membership in the American Merchants' Protective Agency are coming in daily. Up to the present time about forty names, including most of the prominent merchants of the city, have been placed on the list. Receiving as it does the support of every line of business the agency cannot fail to become the strongest ever organized here. Beside the solicitors now here a force will be put to work today compiling ratings and getting records in shape preparatory to opening up their office, which they expect to do shortly. Business men who have not already made application for membership should do so at once, thus encouraging and supporting an institution which will benefit everybody.

SIX MEN WANT TO BE FIRE FIGHTERS

Examinations for City Department Were Held Last Evening—Results Announced Later.

Six applicants for positions in the fire department took the examination of the fire and police commissioners last evening.

The candidates for places in the city's corps of fire fighters were W. E. Behrendt, John E. Wood, F. Kenyon, William Tobin, Charles Schultz, and J. J. Durkin.

After the papers have been looked over and passed upon by the board of commissioners, the list of eligibles will be given to Chief Klein who will make appointments as occasion arises, the appointments being subject to approval by the proper authorities.

SUGGESTION FOR NEW BAND STAND

Beloit Has a Fine Article in Stock, and Wishes to Dispose of It Cheap.

Janesville wants a new band stand in the courthouse park, or, if it can't have a new one, it wants the one now in the park, which is an old one and by no means a thing of beauty torn down. Here's a chance for Beloit's common council to come to the relief of its sister city and at the same time to "turn a pretty penny" for Beloit by selling the brand new bandstand on East Grand avenue park to the distressed Janesvillians. As this stand was erected as the law directs—by the lowest bidder—and consequently, the musicians of this city won't play on it, it will be a good scheme to sell and remove it and replace it with one that shall be erected regardless of the law in such case provided.—Beloit Free Press.

TO BUY MANY CLYDESDALES

ALEX. GALBRAITH HAS GONE TO BRITISH ISLES.

TO SHIP OVER IN SEPTEMBER

Will Purchase Thirty or Forty Horses of Various Breeds for the Annual Importation.

Alexander Galbraith and family departed this week for Great Britain. The purpose of the trip is to make purchases for the annual importations of the heavy horses which have made the Galbraith barns famous.

The horses, which will probably number thirty or forty, will be sent across the ocean in two installments this year, an innovation which will simplify the shipments. One bunch of animals will be sent from Southern England and France, while the other lot will consist of those purchased in the northern border of England, and Scotland. The shipments will be made in September.

At Horse Shows
The intervening time before shipments are made will be spent largely at the various horse shows, where Mr. Galbraith will be able to learn what animals are most distinguishing themselves in the show ring and breeding paddock.

The horses will be largely the thick, heavily built Clydesdales characteristic of the Galbraith importations. During the past year, about seventy horses have been brought over the waters by Galbraith and Son, among them being Clydesdales, Hackneys and Suffolk punches. Their sales have amounted to about 175 stallions.

In Detachments
When the horses arrive in this country they will be separated into several detachments, part of which will go to the state of Washington, and others to this city. Part of the latter will then be forwarded to Manitoba.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, July 8, 1863.—After our paper was issued yesterday afternoon, official dispatches were received, confirming the surrender of Vicksburg.

A Rapid March.—A correspondent in the army of the Potomac writes: "The 11th army corps, on the 26th and 27th ult., marched fifty-four miles. It was over the same ground which the army moved last fall on the march from Berlin to Fredericksburg. Then we were seven days on the route."

Milwaukee, July 7.—The secretary of war announces officially to the governors of all loyal states, that Vicksburg surrendered on the fourth of July and that Gen. Grant is now in possession of that city. Geo. L. Beetle.

A dispatch from Harrisburg, July 7th, evening, states that at 4 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, a furious battle was raging at Williamsport in which the annihilation of the rebels is considered certain. A later special reports the whole rebel army was routed and is panic stricken, throwing away arms and flying in every direction.

New York.—A gentleman just arrived from Richmond, who left day before yesterday, says great consternation prevailed there. The defenses are occupied chiefly by armed citizens, and fears are entertained that Lee will be cut off and Richmond captured before an army can be concentrated there.

Harrisburg, July 7.—Gen. Lee intends to occupy Maryland Heights till his army can cross the Potomac. Men are being sent from Baltimore and Washington to intercept Lee's flying and demoralized troops. A great battle is expected tomorrow. Gen. Meade's forces now nearly double Lee's.

WRECK VICTIMS NUMBER SCORE

TRAIN IS MASS OF WRECKAGE

Passenger Engine and Eight Coaches Are Demolished—Doctor Directs Work of Rescue—Conductor Strays From the Scene a Having Maniac.

Charlottesville, Va., July 8.—Twenty-four passengers were killed and thirteen injured in a head-on collision twenty miles south of this city. The accident was caused by express train No. 35, south bound, running into an open switch at Rockfish depot and smashing into a local freight standing on a siding.

The passenger engine and express coaches were demolished, and the baggage coach and a second-class passenger car were telescoped. In the latter was a party of immigrants, all of whom were killed or injured. Traffic was suspended for eight hours.

Dead and Injured.
The dead: Engineer James McCormick, Engineer Charles Davis, brakeman Thomas Sheppard, fireman Charles T. Gay, J. E. Lowe, Charles T. Leitch, C. C. Owen, Adam Vucassvlevich, Barilani Guglielmo, two unknown Austrian women, unknown mulatto woman.

The Injured: Engineer E. C. Hale, H. A. Sharpe, Turner Ashby Henry, Fireman Walter Jackson, Middle Gjoke, Kap Auglos, Kant Klavernas and Grubac Oberon, T. G. Hudson, T. C. Mercer, J. B. Sterett, Baggage-master J. W. Payne.

Doctor Leads Rescuers.
The work of rescuing the injured began immediately. Dr. William A. Lambeth of the University of Virginia was on the train and at once organized measures of relief.

The trainmen, under the doctor's direction, cut through the panels of the baggage car and express car and took out twenty of the dead. Probably a score of injured were removed.

W. A. Ward, the Union News agent on the train, whose home is in Washington, was in the fatal coach, but escaped death. The shock of the collision threw him through the window, breaking his left arm.

The special train which went from here to the scene of the wreck returned to the city about 8 o'clock, bringing some of the dead and most of the wounded. Thirteen of the injured were taken to the university hospital, where their wounds were dressed.

Conductor Is Insane.
Most of the immigrants were Austrians and were bound for points as far distant as California.

H. A. Sharp of Knoxville, Tenn., narrowly escaped death. He and Mrs. Sharp were returning from their bridal trip, having spent their honeymoon in Washington. Mr. Sharp was in the smoker engaged in conversation with C. C. Owen when the collision occurred. Owen was instantly killed, his body falling on Sharp.

W. B. Bruback of this city, conductor of the local freight, is reported in a critical condition. After witnessing the awful sight he is said to have become suddenly insane and when found was five miles from the wreck.

Loss for China of $200,000.

London, July 8.—The bankers' commission has fixed the rate of exchange for the payment of the indemnity at 54 cents, involving a total loss to the Chinese government of over $200,000.

Tokio, July 8.—The Emperor has directed the premier to take a brief rest, but he will retain office. Some arrangement will be effected without a ministerial disturbance.

Eleven Officials Drown.

Salt Lake, Utah, July 8.—In a fierce sand and salt storm on Great Salt Lake the yacht Cambria is believed to have gone down with eleven prominent city and county officials.

Mystery in Woman's Gift.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 8.—Without leaving any clue to her identity, a woman left a package containing $11,110 at the door of James Mealey with no explanation.

Nile Dam Is a Success.

Cairo, Egypt, July 8.—The Assuan reservoir has been emptied for the first time. The officials say the expenditure on the dam is justified.

Great Lockout in Sweden.

Stockholm, July 8.—A lockout of foundries and machine shops affecting 15,000 men has been declared as the result of a wage dispute.

Britons Salute Americans.

Dover, July 8.—The American squadron under Admiral Cotton has arrived off Dover. They were greeted with a salute.

Life of Railroad Ties.

The annual demand for railway ties is 400 for each mile of track and the average life of a tie is seven years. It is an unusual acre of forest that has 300 trees that will make three ties each, and it takes fifty years to grow a tree that will make three ties. Therefore, twenty-five acres of forest are necessary for every mile of track. Electric railways included, there are in the United States about 250,000 miles of road.

Immense Order for Cars.

One hundred pressed steel cars are to be delivered to the Pennsylvania Railway company every day during the current half year.

A Man Picked Up at Sea

(Original.)

The American steamer Euphemla was approaching Gibraltar, where she was to touch previous to proceeding through the Mediterranean sea to Naples. Captain Price stood on the bridge straining his eyes at some object out on his port quarter, then, raising his glass, brought it to bear on the object in question. Lowering the glass, he directed the course of the vessel to be changed. Ten minutes later a man in a ship's boat was seen frantically waving to the steamer and the crew and passengers were soon watching his lonely craft, far from land on the bosom of an ocean. A whistle was blown to let him know that he was seen, after which he ceased waving and took up a pair of oars to be ready to pull for the vessel when she had slowed down.

"Wonder how he came to be out here," remarked a passenger.

"Probably shipwrecked," replied his companion.

"But we've had delightful weather." "You can't count on that. It may have been blowing great guns near here. Besides, there are fires and derelicts and all sorts of dangers besides storms."

Meanwhile the machinery had stopped and the steamer was drifting past the man, a hundred yards distant. He pulled for her, a rope ladder was thrown over the side and the man climbed aboard. The captain stood at the gangway waiting for him.

"Captain," said the man, "I want a few minutes' private conversation with you."

"I see no reason why what you may have to say should not be heard by every one here. Speak out."

"What I have to say is of very great importance. It concerns the safety of this vessel."

The captain turned and led the way to his cabin. As soon as they were there he shut the door and directed the man to speak out. He had no occasion to urge speed, for the man at once began to talk in a hurried, excited manner.

"Captain, I am happy to see this steamer about. You have an internal machine aboard. Get it out at once and get rid of it. Then I will tell you how I came to know about it and how I came to be here. There's no time to be lost. How long have you been out?"

"Seven days."

"The thing is set for seven days and six hours. Hurry!"

"What is it? Where is it?"

"Among the baggage of John Ramsden, a box about two feet long, a foot high and a foot broad."

Without a word the captain went with the stranger to the hold, where the box was found. The captain called a man sitting on a coil of rope and ordered him to throw the box overboard.

"One moment, captain," said the pick up. "This looks like a straight case, but we're not dead sure. To avoid any possible mistake and the destruction of real baggage I suggest that we lower the thing into my boat and let it drift 200 or 300 feet astern."

"Go ahead and do it," said the captain impatiently.

The man seized the box, carried it gingerly to the deck, tied a rope about it and lowered it into his boat that was tethered to the vessel's side. Then he permitted the boat to drift astern to a safe distance.

"There," he said to the captain. "If it goes off it won't hurt any one. And now, captain, I will explain. I have a brother in New York who belongs to a gang of anarchists. They have determined to destroy every large steamer sailing from that city. My brother knew of this attempt and wrote me about it by a previous steamer. As soon as I received his letter I determined that there was a chance of my saving you. I went to Gibraltar, took a boat and pulled out here to meet you."

"Why didn't you inform the police and have them come out in a steamer?"

"My brother, captain, how could I bring my own brother to the gallows?" "But this anarchist—why blow himself up? He might have shipped his machine and stayed ashore."

"Are you sure he is aboard?"

"No."

The captain at once sent to the purser to know if John Ramsden was aboard and learned that his name was on the passenger list, but that his room had not been occupied. This was strong confirmation of the man's story, and the captain grasped him by the hand and asked him what he could do to show his appreciation of his brave and hazardous effort.

"Save me from testifying against my brother. Do not inform the police of this matter when you arrive."

"I couldn't do that," replied the captain. "It'd be necessary to a crime."

The next morning when the Euphemla was putting into the strait of Gibraltar the picked up man was missing. His boat and the internal machine were also missing. A police boat met the steamer, and an officer came aboard to arrest John Ramsden, who was supposed to have in his possession $100,000 in stolen bonds.

"Umph!" said the officer in great disappointment. "This is the nearest I ever heard of. The pick up learned that we had been cabled to make the arrest and came out to warn his pal. They're gone together with the plunder."

The police boat put on all steam and hurried to the nearest point on the coast, hoping to intercept the fugitives, but got no trace of them. The captain of the Euphemla has since been very heartless about picking up strangers at sea.

Cycle Marvel At 76.

To be young enough at 75 to ride a bicycle is in itself no small accomplishment. To be young enough at that age to ride it more than 5,000 miles in one year, and thereby win a gold medal in competition with youngsters, to whom his years entitle him to be a grandfather, is a remarkable and probably unparalleled achievement, says the bicycling world.

Added to this, it is a notable distinction to have, after fourteen years of riding, a devotion to cycling sufficient to perpetuate the memory of himself as a rider by having the figure of a bicycle and his mileage carved on his tombstone.

All this has been done by Thomas W. Davis of Peoria, Ill., and yet it is a very inadequate summary of his prestige as a bicyclist. As a cycling enthusiast Mr. Davis is beyond question the most "genuine article" in the country. He says of himself:

"I fell in love with the bicycle when I was 61 years old." It has since been made manifest that it was a case of "real love." He is healthy and vigorous at the age of 75; decades; is buoyant of spirit and eager for a century spin with men fifty years his junior.

Since he began to ride Mr. Davis has used two ordinary bicycles and eight safeties and up to the beginning of the season he had covered a total of 90,131 miles. Probably no man living ever has kept such a perfect record of his riding as has Mr. Davis. His total mileage is equal to more than three times the circumference of the earth. He went out for his first ride on a rubber tired ordinary, with ball bearings, which was for a spin of twenty-three miles into the country, and made a note of it. That was in June 1889, and every ride he has taken since then has had its mileage chronicled.

In 1894 his mileage included eight centuries. When he was 65 years of age Mr. Davis averaged more than 1,000 miles a month and he did the same in his 70th year, 1898.

The first century ridden by Mr. Davis was in 1891, when he joined in one of the first big runs held in Chicago. It was more like a race than a century ride. There were 150 starters and Mr. Davis was one of the last. He was number 30 at the finish. In 1901 Mr. Davis went again to Chicago to join in the century ride over the Libertyville-Waukegan course, to see if, after ten years, he could still hold his own with youngsters. He found that he could. He was then 73 years old and while some younger ones of the eighty starters dropped out the veteran was well up among those who finished.

One wheel he had rode 34,441 miles and in the course of that riding used up sixteen tires, eleven on the rear wheel and five on the front wheel. He has used the same saddle for more than 70,000 miles of riding. He uses rubber pedals without toe clips and rode with one pair 25,020 miles.

POPE LEO IS MUCH WEAKER

even stroke? Dr. Mazzoni's face, in the benevolent way which is characteristic of him. Then, with one hand he rearranged his position, closed his eyes, and in a few minutes passed into a calm, healthful sleep.

After half an hour's peaceful and apparently refreshing repose, the pope awoke and inquired about the doctors. Hearing they were in the next room, he said:

"I thought they had gone. What do they stay here for? What are they plotting?"

Dr. Lapponi, re-entering the room, said:

Wants to See Bulletin.

"We were preparing bulletins regarding the operation, saying it was successful in all respects," Dr. Mazzoni added, "We must inform the public, which is waiting with such trepidation, especially as it is so easy to have inexact news spread."

"Very well," replied his holiness, "I wish to see myself these bulletins in their exact text. I have already seen and meditated on that of last night."

Presently he looked around and said: "Am I really in this world? I dreamed I was in paradise."

He then went on speaking about the causes of his illness. "I would like to know," he said, "from what it comes. I think I have always followed Dr. Lapponi's advice."

"Not always, your holiness," replied Lapponi gently.

"Well," retorted Pope Leo, "you could not expect to remedy my old age."

Pontiff is Cheerful.

After a short silence, the pope, turning to Dr. Mazzoni, said: "In the last consistory I appointed as a cardinal a fellow citizen of yours, Cardinal Tallani, who comes from the Marches. Do you know him?"

"Yes, your holiness, I know him. I hope that that will not be your last consistory."

"I am afraid so," sighed the pope, sadly. After which his head fell upon the pillow, as though extremely tired, being again the prey of exhaustion. The happy and cheerful expressions of the pontiff at the moment when he was in the very shadow of death astonished the doctors. The pope himself seems to glory in his ability to present a calm and bright demeanor, and particularly asked the doctors to tell people about the state of his mind. Accordingly the doctors have freely discussed the cheerfulness of the venerable patient, repeating the details of his quick sallies, as showing the activity of his mind.

PRESS COMMENT.

La Crosse Leader and Press: Gov. La Follette is now criticised for attacking the trusts. If a public man may not express fear of offending some influential interests he may as well maintain silence altogether.

La Crosse Leader and Press: The attitude of the Oshkosh Northwestern in the state factional fight is such as to arouse the suspicion that Colonel Hicks intends to offer himself as a compromise candidate.

Milwaukee Wisconsin: The average housekeeper can not do as well as the managers of the United States mint, who got $9,000 in gold out of the carpet of the adjusting room by subjecting it to a chemical process. At that rate the annual housecleaning would be a time for replenishing the family coffers.

Waupun Leader: Governor La Follette has appointed the well-known club women, Mrs. C. S. Morris of Berlin, and Mrs. H. W. Youmans of Waukesha as lady managers for the Wisconsin commission for the St. Louis world's fair. Their appointment reflects great credit upon the governor's ability to make a selection from Wisconsin's capable women.

Eau Claire Leader: Some think that as it is a year until the republican national convention meets, it is too early to open the campaign. We do not so regard it. The campaign for chief executive of this state opened fifteen months previous to the election. Would it be right to make the governor of Wisconsin of more importance than the president of the United States?

Green Bay Gazette: Chairman Warden of the democratic state central committee has been getting pointers on the harmony that prevails among the members of his party in Wisconsin. His suggestion that ex-Senator Vilas would make an ideal candidate for the presidency has been given about as cordial a reception as an Orangeman would get at a St. Patrick's day picnic.

Eau Claire Telegram: The sooner Wisconsin's agricultural, industrial and commercial interests are thoroughly aroused to the importance of good roads, the better. The subject ought to be made an issue in next year's ante-convention campaigns in all political parties in Wisconsin, and candidates for legislative nominations ought to be required to tell where they stand on this as well as all other public questions.

Valuable Discovery of Petroleum. A large area of coal and petroleum has been discovered in Kootenay, B. C., near the northeast corner of Idaho and within twenty-miles of the Canadian Pacific railway.

Light Fluctuations. The fluctuations of the light of Nova Gemmorum is often as much as half a magnitude in twenty-four hours, like that of Nova Persei No. 2.

Four Varieties of Projectiles.

Four classes of projectiles are used in the United States navy—armor-piercing projectiles for use against armor, common shell for use against unarmored or very thinly armored parts, shrapnel for service against exposed detachments of men, a considerable distance away, and canister, which is employed against detachments of men lacking protection within close range.

Strenuous Men Needed.

Lord Methuen declared recently that the type of clergyman needed in South Africa was to be found doing his work at the Oxford Mission in the East End of London, with his shirt sleeves tucked up.

Gen. Greene to Have Statue.

Gov. Odell has signed the bill appropriating $5,000 for a statue to Maj. Gen. George Sears Greene at Gettysburg.

Has Held Position Long.

Sir Walter Merton, now in the United States on a sightseeing tour, has been solicitor to the London board of trade since 1875.
